Notable features:

This is a small late nineteenth century row of houses of roughly the same date as those around the corner on Carey Street (225-245 N. Carey). It would appear that this block underwent considerable change after 1886 when the property facing Carey Street was developed. Number 1227 is formstoned.

Note: What is now Rankin Place was in 1886 called Lehrman Alley. It was renamed in honor of Charles Rankin, who was rector of St. Luke's Carey Street from 1853, and so during the main work on the construction of the church.

Environmental context:

This is not a strong row due to the cemetery break next door to the east, but picturesque and in good shape. The street is wide and busy, needs street trees.
